WILSON SPEAKS AFTER PARADE

President to Deliver Preparedness Address at Interdepartmental Exercises.

In addition to marching down the Avenue in the preparedness parade today, President Wilson will deliver a preparedness address at the interdepartmental exercises of the Government departments at the Monument Grounds shortly after the parade. When the parade is over, the President will go to the Monument Grounds and deliver his address. The parade will begin at 3 o'clock. A chorus of nearly 1,000 persons will sing patriotic anthems, and as the President enters the stand, the Marine Band will play "Hail to the Chief." Secretary of State Robert Lansing will preside at the exercises. The audience, too, will join in the singing of "America" and "The Star Spangled Banner." As a national salute is fired by the field artillery of the National Guard, a large American flag will be raised slowly to the top of the Monument. During the playing of the national anthem at the end of the exercises, it will be slowly lowered.

"View the parade from the south side of the Avenue if you wish to attend the parade," said the advice of Maj. Raymond W. Pullman, chief of police, who states that crossing the Avenue during the parade without permit will not be allowed.

Chorus Is Arranged.

E. J. Ayers, chief clerk of the Interior Department, is chairman of the committee on arrangements that has been working out the details of the parade for the past few months. Robert W. Wood, chief clerk of the Labor Department, is secretary. Earl Carbaugh, of the Postoffice Department, will lead the chorus, and George H. Brown, of the Navy Department, will be in charge of the interdepartmental celebration idea, is assistant director. The triple sextet, which sang at the postoffice celebration yesterday, will aid the chorus.

James L. Wilmett, chief clerk of the Treasury Department, has charge of finances. Other members of the committee are Ben G. Davis, chief clerk of State Department; John C. Scofield, chief clerk of the War Department; Charles E. Stewart, chief clerk of the Department of Justice; William I. Denning, chief clerk of the Postoffice Department; F. S. Curtis, chief clerk of the Navy Department; R. M. Rouse, chief clerk of the Department of Agriculture; George C. Haymer, chief clerk of the Department of Commerce; J. G. Taylor, Smithsonian Institution; Lester Sisler, chief clerk of the Interstate Commerce Commission; Warren R. Choate, chief clerk of the Federal Trade Commission; Raymond W. Pullman, chief of police; Ray L. Smith, Panama Canal; M. J. McLaughlin, chief clerk of the Government Printing Office; and F. F. Gillett, superintendent of the Office of Public Buildings and Grounds.

CONVENTION SIDELIGHTS

St. Louis, Mo., June 13.—Oklahoma has a "favorite son" in the Vice Presidential sweepstakes. He is Senator Owen, and the delegates from the wind-swept State claim he is going to be a real factor.

New Jersey bore down on St. Louis today almost en masse. The "Skeeter" delegation, headed by Edward E. Grosscup, is occupying forty-one rooms at the Planters' Hotel.

The scores of newspaper correspondents who are here today are recovering from one of the greatest shocks of their young and old lives. August A. Busch sent word to press headquarters that all the writers were to be his guests. There was a mad scramble to get work out of the way. The name Busch caused some excitement. The writers were of a trip to a nice, cool brewery—St. Louis is a hot town—and the scribes were all on hand. Judge the disappointment when it was discovered the brewery was not on the line of march. The trip was to the Busch country place. Most of the party picked up considerably, however, as the supply of mint juleps was inexhaustible.

Every color and shape in Palm Beach suits is seen in and around the hotels of St. Louis. One, however, stood out from the rest. It was worn by an alternate from New York, and was bright green, with a red cuff on the trousers. He claimed to be "away ahead of the style." He was—and there doesn't seem to be any inclination to catch up.

As a loaded brewery wagon stopped in front of the Illinois headquarters some wit nailed a large sign on one of the kegs. It read: "Our platform—Preparedness."

The weather man in St. Louis was evidently doing his best to show up the Chicago forecaster. He has thus far played his finest brand of summer—moderately warm with a cool breeze for comfort. But the natives say there is hot weather coming—and the temperature must stand over a hundred before they even admit it's warm.

Not all of the visiting correspondents went on the automobile trip given to the newspaper men. Some had to stay in town and write sidelights.

Gov. Major, of Missouri, has a silk-hat following which is boosting him for the Vice Presidential nomination. Its only rival in headpiece attraction is in the Iowa delegation, whose members wear straw hats with bright orange bands around them.

Ticket speculators are offering "best seats" at the convention for $25. In Chicago before the rain "splashed" things, the scalpers placed a price of $200 on single seats to the Republican show.

The interest of the Germans of the country in the convention, and particularly in the platform, is seen in the sending of a corps of German reporters to "cover" the proceedings.

TINKHAM BILL APPROVED.

Property Owners Not to Be Assessed at Once.

The Tinkham bill which was introduced in the House yesterday, receding the official indorsement of the District Commissioners. This bill provides that assessments on property for the benefits accruing thereto from public improvements, shall not become due until the improvements have actually been made.

Under the present law, assessments are payable within sixty days after the verdict of the assessment jury and its ratification by the court. Since the improvements are not always made immediately after these awards, the Commissioners took the position that the payments in advance of the benefits worked an injustice upon the property owners.

TRIBUTE AT THEATER.

Theodore Hardy Will Recite at Strand.

In honor of Flag Day and the huge preparedness parade, Tom Moore has arranged a fitting tribute at the Strand Theater. Theodore Hardy will recite Francis Scott Key's "The Star Spangled Banner," with special scenic effects, musical accompaniment, pictorial settings and realistic lighting effects.

Mr. Hardy gained fame as star of "The Ben Hur Company" for three seasons and was afterwards connected with "The Third Degree" and "The Winning of Barbara Worth." Mr. Hardy has been featured at Poll's and the Columbia and quite recently directed Mrs. Christian Hemmick's outdoor performance of "The Midsummer Tercentenary."

TRAINING BILL IS REDRAFTED

Change in Chamberlain Measure Provides for Six Months' Compulsory Service.

At the instance of Senator Chamberlain, of Oregon, a complete redraft of the latter's supplementary army bill, providing for universal compulsory military training, has been completed by Capt. George Van Horn Moseley, of the General Staff of the War Department. In new form, the bill substitutes, for the original requirement of two months' annual military training for young men between the ages of 18 and 21, a provision requiring every able-bodied male citizen of the country to undertake a six-months' course of military training during the year in which he reaches the age of 18.

In the case of young men who have attended military academies, credits up to a maximum of two months' exemption will be allowed against the six-months' required course.

Although the measure does not impose any direct penalties on young men who refuse to take the training, it provides a penalty of fine or imprisonment, or both, for any individual, firm or corporation who employs any young man above the age of 18 who is unable to show a certificate from the Federal Government that he has taken the course or has been exempted.

The bill provides that the President shall annually decide which of the number of recruits under the new system shall be trained for the army and navy; and in his discretion, the President may, as the number of trained men in reserve or active training increases, cut down the strength of the standing army and assign commissioned and noncommissioned officers of the regulars to the work of training the civilian force.

Liability for Seven Years.

It is provided that after taking the prescribed course, the trained citizen shall be liable for seven years to mobilization and service in the field in the event of a national emergency.

It is further provided that in the event of such emergency the youngest classes would be called first, thus leaving the older men, who have married and assumed responsibilities, until the last.

Army officers declare that more effective training could be given in a continuous course of six months than in three annual courses of two months each. They estimate that if the plan is put into operation, the national reserve of "qualified" soldiers and sailors could be increased at the rate of 600,000 a year.

BRYAN SHUNNED BY DEMOCRATS

Arrival of "Peerless Leader" at St. Louis Causes No Ripple of Applause.

By E. C. HILL.
(Sun News Service.)

St. Louis, Mo., June 13.—An elderly man with a bald spot stepped from a taxi at the curb of the Jefferson Hotel this morning, fished some silver change from his pocket to satisfy the driver, hoisted his battered valise from the sidewalk, and paused for a moment while he cooled his moist face with a half-leaf fan.

His eyes, glinting and narrowing like a senna hawk's, studied the throng, lingered upon it. He saw Senator Hamilton J. Lewis the center of an amused group. He observed Murphy, of Tammany, avoiding a surge of the curious, and his face hardened. He noticed Champ Clark and Senator Reed, of Missouri, beaming upon their admirers. He saw Harmon, of Ohio, and Walsh, of Massachusetts, and Vandaman, of Mississippi, being interviewed and sketched and snaphotted. And he stared with troubled eyes.

Correspondents avoided him. Artists, once so eager to pencil the lines of his rugged face, passed him by. Delegates were wholly uninterested in this doubtful, perhaps hopeful, figure. Visitors continued to crowd about the leaders that have survived the tricks of time, or to laugh behind their hands at certain mannikins of fun. The drum major of a band preceding a delegation into the hotel elbowed him to one side. He submitted without protest.

Somebody asked: "Who is that man?" Somebody replied: "Oh, that's Bryan."

A Missouri Democrat, who knows the Scripture (there are such), recalled Job's plaint to Balaad the Shuhite, and quoted it, quoted it without scorn, rather with a note of sympathy: "They abhor me, they flee far from me, the days of affliction have taken hold upon me, I am companion to owls."

An electric fan has been invented in which the vanes are covered with gauze, which enters a tank of water at each revolution and helps to cool the breezes the fan creates.
